Japanese Court Frees Marine in Fatal Shooting of Youth in Bar

YOKOSUKA, Japan (AP)—A Japanese court today freed an Illinois Marine of murder charges because the Marine was "pathologically intoxicated" when he shot and killed a Japanese youth.

It was the first instance observers could recall that an American serviceman had been saved under the operation of a unique Japanese law which grants leniency in the case of drunkenness.

The Marine was Pfc. Adolph W. Merten, East St. Louis, Ill. Justice Minoru Kamiizumi of the Yokosuka branch of the Yokohama District Court found him not guilty of fatally shooting Shiro Tayawa, 19, in a Yokosuka bar last Oct. 8.

"The defendant had been drinking for several hours at the time of the incident," the judge said in his ruling. "Because of this, he showed symptoms of being pathologically intoxicated and was in a state of mental unsoundness."

Merten, 25, a member of the Marine helicopter unit stationed near the American naval base city, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Merten of 24 Signal Hill Blvd., East St. Louis.

The prosecutor had demanded eight years in prison for the Marine flier. Under the status of forces agreement in force between Japan and the U. S. security forces, the case can be appealed in a Japanese court but Merten cannot be tried for the same crime by a U. S. military court.

The prosecutor did not indicate immediately he would appeal, but judging from past cases in Japan it appeared certain he would.

Under Japanese law the prosecution as well as the defense has the right to appeal a sentence. It has happened that an appeal court gave a defendant a heavier sentence than did the trial court.

Court records showed the shooting occurred in a bar and grill in Yokosuka around 1 o'clock in the morning.

The prosecution said Merten came down the stairs from the second floor and saw a friend, an Army sergeant stationed near his unit, drinking with several Japanese on the first floor.

The charges said Merten pulled out his service pistol and fired four shots. The men at the bar fled, but Takawa was slower and was wounded in the left hip and stomach. He died later in a hospital.

The man who fired the shots fled. Later, Japanese police picked up Merten at a railroad station and charged him with the crime.

It was reported at the time that Merten, a veteran of the fighting in Korea, had developed a "phobia" about Communists and jumped to the conclusion that his friend was about to be killed by Communists. Japanese newspapers identified the friend as a Sgt. H. J. Denley.

Air Force Radar Line Completed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Air Force today celebrated its coming 50th anniversary with a prediction that its combat planes will flash through the air at 2,000 miles an hour within the next few years.

It also predicted its combat planes within a few years will fly at an altitude of 75,000 feet.

At the same time, the Air Force announced that construction of the Distant Early Warning line was completed on schedule in 32 months and will go into operation today. Building the 3,000-mile string of radar stations has been termed the "greatest Arctic operation of all time."

The DEW line, which stretches from Cape Lisburne in Alaska all the way to Baffin Island, is designed to give vital targets in North America three or more hours warning of a Russian attack across the Polar wastes. It was built at an estimated cost of 600 million dollars.

There was a hint in the announcement that the Air Force hopes the radar outposts probably with some modification, can serve as a warning system for guided missiles as well as aircraft.

Jack Kochman's Auto Daredevils At Fair Tonight

Tonight the Saline county fair program will be brightened by the appearance of Jack Kochman's Daredevils, who thrill their audiences with their death-defying stunts in automobiles.

More than a score of thrilling events will be performed by the stunt drivers and those who have seen these men in past years will vouch for the fine entertainment they provide.

The fair today had been extended through Saturday because of last night's postponement of the Saline County Beauty contest due to wet grounds in front of the grandstand. Miss Saline County now will be chosen at the conclusion of a program which will start at 8 p. m. Saturday.

The Tivoli Exposition shows announced yesterday that Kids Days will be held Thursday and Friday afternoons, with all mechanical rides just a dime for children of school age.

Flames Shoot From Hole in Long Branch

No Official Report Of Damage; May Exceed $200,000

A fire at a Long Branch township oil drilling operation ten miles north of Harrisburg this morning destroyed drilling equipment, seven fracturing trucks and four storage tanks, and flames were shooting from the hole.

There was no official estimate of the damage but there were reports that it could exceed $200,000. It appeared to be by far the worst oil fire in Saline county.

The operation was the Guy Miller No. 1, NE 1/4 SW 36, being drilled by the Robison Oil Co. of Chicago.

A Robison Oil Co. employee would make no statement on just what happened or on the estimated loss, stating he first must make his report to his company.

A Halliburton Oil Well Cementing Co. spokesman said that seven Halliburton fracturing trucks, which are expensively-equipped machines, burned up at the scene.

Spudder Rig, Tanks Lost

Also lost was Robison's spudder rig and four 10,000 gallon oil tanks belonging to the Lambert and Hood Co. of Mt. Carmel, Ill. The rotary rig already had been moved away from the operation.

Although there was no announcement on what happened, one unofficial report said that the well was in the process of being fractured and that an oil hose burst and sprayed oil on a manifold, the oil igniting and spreading over the entire works. The latest oil reports on this operation were that the McCloskey was being tested.

Reports were that nobody was hurt.

"Everybody who was the scene is walking," one person stated. Shortly before noon the scene was a charred mass of wreckage. The oil well hole was still burning.

Public Kept From Operation

Kenneth Jackson, who resides three fourths of a mile west of the site, said he was outside when he heard several explosions from the vicinity of the test around 7 a. m. "I heard several explosions, and then smoke billowed up all around," he stated.

Nobody resides on the premises, owned by Guy Miller of Eldorado.

The Robison Oil Co. representative said that the operation was a "tight hole," meaning that they had not been putting out any information on its progress. A fence had kept the public from getting near the hole.

Gray Charges Administration Forgets Promise to Aid Area

WASHINGTON, July 31 — The Eisenhower administration, which during the 1956 political campaign promised economic aid for southern Illinois, is forgetting those promises, Rep. Kenneth J. Gray (D., Ill.) asserted yesterday. He pointed specifically to the Saline river project.

Gray said top Republicans in Washington had made those promises in campaign speeches against him last fall.

"The Republicans sent 19 speakers into my district (which includes Saline county) to try to beat me last fall," Gray said, "and they all promised they would do everything possible to help out the area."

"Now that the election is over, they seem to have forgotten all about their promises when it comes to giving southern Illinois a hand."

Congressman Gray said the administration has listed the Saline river project as one of the 16 objectionable items in the Senate-passed Rivers and Harbors bill.

The measure has been approved by the House Public Works committee.

GOP committee members contend Eisenhower will veto the bill for the second time if it is not changed on the floor to conform with administration recommendations.

The bill provides for local contributions of $233,000 for the Saline river project, estimated to cost $5,970,000. The administration seeks a $980,000 figure for the local contribution and Gray says this is too steep for the southern Illinois area involved.

The local contributions would come from Saline and Gallatin counties in Illinois, two counties which have been plagued by unemployment and loss of industry and population.

"I'm not even sure the money in the bill could be raised," Gray stated. "I first urged that the Public Works committee provide for no local contributions but accepted the $233,000 figure as a compromise."

Denial of Clemency Recalls Thrill Slaying That Shocked Nation

CHICAGO — Gov. William G. Stratton's denial of clemency for Nathan Leopold's bid for freedom recalled a "thrill slaying" that shocked the nation 33 years ago.

It recalled the kidnapping and slaying of little Bobby Franks, the quick arrest and subsequent confessions of Leopold and his partner in crime, Richard Loeb, and demands at their trial that the two brilliant sons of millionaires be "put away forever" in prison.

Here is the story of that case that horrified the nation in the raucous, roaring '20s and was tabbed the "crime of the century":

The Kidnaping Victim

Bobby Franks, 14, was the son of Jacob Franks, a wealthy retired manufacturer. He lived with his parents in a luxurious home in then-fashionable Hyde Park on Chicago's South Side.

Bobby disappeared about 5 p. m. May 21, 1924, while walking home alone after a neighborhood baseball game. Five hours later, while his father was notifying police that the boy was missing, a muffled voice informed his mother over the telephone that her son had been kidnapped but was safe.

The next morning the father received a mailed note. It demanded $10,000 ransom.

Discovery of the Crime

On the same day, a man walking through a forest preserve on the far South Side found the nude body of a boy, with head crushed, crumpled into a railroad culvert.

A pair of shell-rimmed glasses was found near the scene.

While Franks was still frantically trying to make contact with the kidnapers, Bobby's uncle went to the morgue and identified the body found in the culvert as that of the Franks boy.

Police gave Franks the grim news as he waited for a taxicab to take him with the ransom money to a rendezvous with the kidnapers. The rendezvous never took place.

The Investigation

A trail led straight to Leopold, 19-year-old scion of a wealthy Hyde Park family, and Loeb, 18, his intimate companion. Both were outstanding graduate students at the University of Chicago.

They were avid readers of Arthur Schopenhauer, the pessimistic German philosopher, and Friedrich Nietzsche, the apostle of the "superman."

The glasses found near the scene were traced through an optical shop to Leopold. He admitted they were his. He said blithely that he must have lost them while studying birds in the forest preserve. But reporters digging into the case found samples of typing Leopold had done for classmates.

They compared the samples with the typing on the ransom note. They matched.

Leopold's typewriter was fished up from Jackson Park lagoon where he had thrown it.

The Confession

Leopold and Loeb confessed soon afterward. Their story sickened even veteran policemen.

They said they plotted what they thought would be a "perfect crime" because they wanted to prove to themselves that they could outwit the law. And they wanted to convince themselves, they said, that they were supermen who could preserve a detached, scientific attitude while snuffing out the life of Bobby Franks.

They told authorities they induced young Franks to enter their car, a rented one, for a "ride home" and almost immediately bludgeoned him to death with a chisel.

Each blamed the other for the actual slaying.

The Trial

The thrill slayers were brought to trial on July 23, 1924. At first they pleaded not guilty. But later their lawyer, the famous Clarence Darrow, had them change their plea to guilty.

In a dramatic courtroom battle to save Leopold and Loeb from the death penalty, Darrow sent a battery of alienists to the witness chair to testify that the two youths were the victims of a lack of normality in their lives.

Darrow pleaded that while the defendants might intellectually know the difference between right and wrong, they could not make the distinction emotionally.

State's Atty. Robert E. Crowe called the youths "a pair of rattlesnakes" and demanded the death penalty.

Judge John R. Caverly finally sentenced each to 99 years for kidnapping and a life term for murder. He said it was his wish that they should never be freed.

They entered Stateville Penitentiary on Sept. 11, 1924.

The Years Since

Leopold faded into the obscurity of prison life as No. 9306-D. He became a model prisoner.

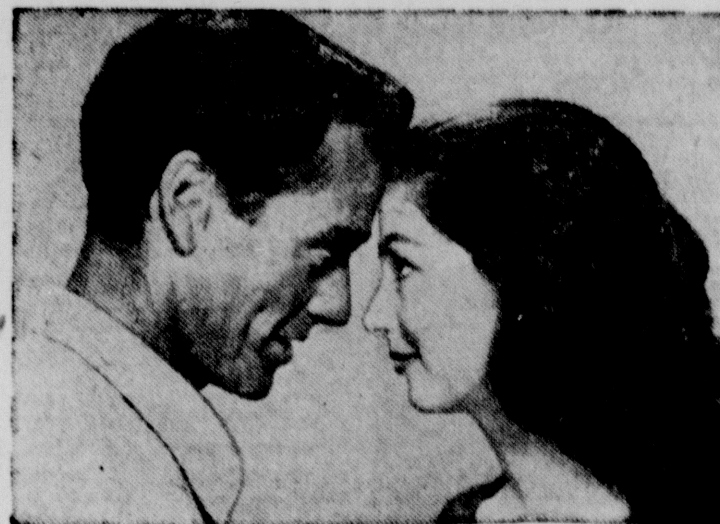

Loeb, a sexual deviate, was slashed to death in January, 1936, in a fight with a fellow convict.

Leopold served 25 years before he made his first bid for freedom. Then, in 1949, he asked for executive clemency on the same grounds as other convicts who volunteered as human guinea pigs in World War II malaria experiments.

Adlai E. Stevenson, then governor of Illinois, cut Leopold's 99-year sentence to 85 years. But the state Pardon and Parole Board in 1953 denied Leopold's parole application, and twice since then it refused to grant a rehearing.

2,190 Miles of Toll Roads in U. S. Would Cost Motorist $31.68

WASHINGTON — A motorist would have to pay $31.68 in tolls to drive over the entire 2,190 miles of the nation's major turnpikes, the American Automobile Assn. said today.

This averages out to 1 1/2 cents per mile and is equivalent of adding 21 cents per gallon to the gasoline tax of motorists using the toll roads, the AAA said.

Leopold carried his appeal to Stratton this year.

"I earnestly beg you to show me the mercy I did not show," he said.

Bandits Pick On Insurance Man

CHICAGO (AP)—Solomon Feuerstein, 48, is growing weary of three little words—"Stick 'em up."

In four months, the insurance collector has been robbed five times.

"And there was another time when I ran away in time," he said.

Feuerstein walks from door to door, collecting weekly payments on life insurance policies. He makes his rounds mostly from 4 to 8 p. m. after people are home from work, and bandits accost him after dark.

"They robbed me the very first day I went on the job," Feuerstein complained.

Two robbers beat him, knocked him down and kicked him on Feb. 15, but the short, plump collector said it could have been worse.

"I didn't have to go to the hospital," he said. "A doctor fixed me up."

Sol's boss, Harry Bookman, told Feuerstein that robbers pick on him because he's little, and urged him to find other work. But Feuerstein was adamant.

"I'm not going to quit my job," he said. "I came here 18 years ago from Poland to get away from persecution, and I have a right to work at the job I want."

Without an unseen ingredient, glycerine, cellophane would be as brittle as glass.

OUT OUR WAY

THE BULL O' TH' WOODS'S LEGS KINDA GIVE OUT, PADDLIN' AROUND ON THESE HARD FLOORS. AN' HE RUBS 'EM NOW AN' THEN—HE MERELY PUT HIS HAND ON TH' GUYS SHOULDER TO STEADY HISSELF AN' TH' GUY JUMPS IN AN' MAKES IT LOOK LIKE HE NEEDED A CRANE HOIST!

FUNNY, A GUY'S SMART ENOUGH TO GET TO BE A FOREMAN BUT FATHEADED ENOUGH TO MAKE TH' BIG BOSS LOOK LIKE A DODDERIN' OL' WRECK—HE KNOWS MACHINES BUT NOT PEOPLE!

300 Teen-Agers Work to Get Youth Center Into Operation at West Frankfort

WEST FRANKFORT, Ill. (AP)—Three hundred teen-agers here are using initiative, enterprise and elbow grease to move themselves off the streets.

A slim, crew - cut high school senior is directing operations as bobby-sox work crews are transforming an abandoned lodge hall into a teen center.

He is Mike Marchildon, 17, son of a West Frankfort accountant, and president of the Junior Teen Town Board.

"I guess we just got tired of standing around on street corners with nothing to do at night," says Mike.

Believe Menard Escapees Take Motorist's Car

Farmer Overpowered, Trussed, Dumped in Field Near McClure

DU QUOIN, Ill. — Authorities in three states today sought three armed men, believed to be escapees from the Menard State Prison honor farm, who overpowered a motorist and stole his car.

State police in Illinois alerted Missouri and Indiana authorities Tuesday night after a farmer found Harvey Petot, Menfro, Mo., trussed and dumped in a field near McClure, Ill.

Petot said he overheard conversation indicating a fourth member of the escape team drowned.

The motorist said the three men overpowered him after he gave them a ride near Perryville, Mo. He said one of the men mentioned that Francis M. Murphy, 56, Terre Haute, Ind., drowned while trying to swim the Mississippi river after the escape Sunday morning.

The three other escapees were Joe Bill Strange, 25, Albertsville, Ala.; Clarence Newberry, 29, St. Louis, and Millard Carlisle, 31, Benton, Ill. They fled from the Menard branch of the Illinois State Penitentiary by sawing their way through the barred windows of the dormitory.

Night guard Robert Walker, Benton, was temporarily suspended for negligence following an investigation of the break. Warden Ross V. Randolph said Walker could have prevented the break had he been more observant. Walker was locked in with the prisoners the night of the escape.

The prisoners apparently attempted to swim the Mississippi near Menard after the break and lost Murphy, then worked their way to Perryville, Mo., some 15 miles southwest of Menard.

Then, after hailing Petot, they rode with him to Cape Girardeau, Mo., crossed back into Illinois, threw Petot out of the car, and sped across the narrow neck of southern Illinois. They carried at least six guns, Petot said.

Warden Randolph said Tuesday he would ask the FBI to join in the search.

Petot was taken to Chester today to see pictures of the convicts. First he said they were his captors. Police said Petot was quite upset at the time. Later he said it was "awfully dark" when he was with the men and he couldn't be sure of the identifications.

Leopold Plans New Parole Plea in October

JOLIET, Ill. — Thrill killer Nathan Leopold took steps today to make another appeal for freedom before the state Parole Board meets in October.

Leopold, slayer of young Bobby Franks in the "crime of the century," saw his hopes for freedom by Christmas evaporate Tuesday on a technicality.

Gov. William G. Stratton, in a carefully worded statement, rejected Leopold's appeal because executive clemency would remove him from parole supervision.

But Stratton's statement appeared to invite Leopold to petition a third time for a rehearing on his parole application.

Because Leopold is ailing with diabetes and a heart condition, he does not believe he will live to the year 1968 when he will be eligible for parole.

The body will lie in state at the Miller funeral home in Metropolis until time for the funeral.

RUDIMENT CHURCH MEETING AUGUST 2 CANCELLED

Due to the conflicting dates for the Youth Revival and the Union Association of the Social Brethren church, the association meeting, scheduled for August 2, will not be held in the Rudiment church as previously announced.

Museum's 49th TICONDEROGA, N. Y. — The Fort Ticonderoga restoration and military museum opens its 49th season this summer. The fort, located on Lake Champlain and overlooking the channel which leads into Lake George, features a collection of Colonial and Revolutionary War military memorabilia.

Hits Appropriations Block

President Firmly Opposed to Jury Trial Amendment in Rights Bill

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower today expressed firm opposition to any change in the civil rights bill which would provide jury trials in contempt of court cases.

The chief executive at his news conference said he did not believe there should be any amendment to Part IV—the voting rights section—of the bill pending in the Senate. This would authorize the federal government to seek court injunctions to protect Negroes' voting rights. Violations of such injunctions would become contempt-of-court cases.

The chief executive also said he regarded as a very serious situation the block on appropriations bills caused by the civil rights fight in the Senate. He pointed out that thousands of government workers would have no assurance of continuing pay unless the log jam was broken immediately.

Defends Gluck Nomination

Other news highlights at his meeting today with 221 reporters: —He stoutly defended his nomination of Maxwell Gluck as ambassador to Ceylon, saying he knew Gluck was not familiar with Ceylon but that a man of his record and intelligence certainly could learn. This comment arose from the fact that at a recent Senate hearing on his nomination Gluck did not know the name of the prime minister of the country to which he is being sent.

Speaking quite sternly in the hot, humid conference room, the chief executive said he did not take kindly to erroneous suggestions, such as those made in the Gluck case, that he would appoint a man to a diplomatic post on the basis of his contributions to the Republican Party.

Election Aug. 27

Kohler, Proxmire Nominated for McCarthy Post in Wisconsin

MILWAUKEE, Wis. —Former Gov. Walter J. Kohler, an "Eisenhower Republican," and Democrat William Proxmire, whom he beat in two gubernatorial elections, will fight it out in the Aug. 27 general election to succeed the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy.

It will be a familiar scene when the two winners of Tuesday's Wisconsin primary election battle for the Senate seat. Kohler was governor for three terms (1950-1956), and Proxmire thrice tried unsuccessfully for that office. Kohler won both times they opposed each other.

Only about 500,000 of the state's 2,300,000 eligible voters cast ballots despite generally fair weather.

Proxmire predicted: "For the first time in 20 years Wisconsin will have a Democratic senator."

Says U. S. Steel Expansion Costs Tops Earnings

NEW YORK — U. S. Steel Corp., whose pricing policies come under congressional scrutiny next week, has spent more for expansion and modernization than it has earned in the postwar period, according to its top officer.

Chairman Roger Blough said the corporation's postwar capital expenditures of three billion dollars topped its earnings by around a billion dollars.

He said that the recent $6 a ton increase which triggered the Senate investigation of steel prices "certainly was a conservative." Other steel industry leaders have said the price increase failed to cover the costs stemming from the automatic wage increase granted July 1.

Blough told a press conference Tuesday that the company's earnings were after taxes but before payment of dividends to stockholders. He said two-thirds of the company's capital needs have come from depreciation, and the rest from retained earnings and borrowings.

He said he will "welcome" a chance to appear before the Senate Judiciary Subcommittee next week, when it launches its investigation of steel prices. "We think we have a good case to present," Blough said.

He spoke to reporters after reporting that "Big Steel" rang up record sales and earnings in the first half of 1957. However, he warned that second half operations may not match those of the first six months.

The world's biggest steel company earned $231,421,308 or $4.07 a share in the first six months, against $208,550,441 or $3.66 a share a year ago. Sales rose to $2,336,663,000 from $2,269,290,135 a year ago.

—He said he would like to see Congress review the laws covering conflict of interests in federal appointments with a view to encouraging younger, experienced executives from private business to come into the government.

Another School Bill

—Amid uproarious laughter, he rejected a current report that he was worth one million dollars, saying that if the man printing these reports offered to buy him out for that amount, there would be a quick sale.

He said that when he took office, everything he owned outside of a small amount of cash in the bank was placed in an irrevocable trust and all he knew about it was the amount of taxes he owed at the end of each year.

—He threw down assertions by House Democrats that he did not plug sufficiently for his school construction bill that was killed in the House last week. Eisenhower said he had put forth his school program on a number of occasions and despite the House action, would have another school bill ready for Congress next year.

—He urged again speedy congressional action on the foreign aid authorization bill, saying it was absolutely essential to the continued national security.

—The President even came up, by request, with his formula for how to stop smoking successfully: Get busy at something else, think of something else and avoid self-pity.

—He expressed regret over the death of President Castillo Armas of Guatemala, saying his assassination was a tragic loss to the Western world.

Western Powers Agree to Joint Open Skies Plan

LONDON —The Western powers today agreed on a joint "open skies" aerial inspection plan to be presented to the Soviet Union as part of a first step toward disarmament.

The agreement was reached at a 90-minute session this morning among Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, France's Jules Moch, Britain's Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and Canada's David Johnston.

Dulles immediately invited Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin to join the other Western delegation chiefs at an informal working lunch at the official residence of the U. S. ambassador.

In Paris, French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau announced he would fly to London Thursday and join Dulles and Lloyd for the first Big Three foreign ministers' conference since the Suez crisis split the Atlantic alliance last fall.

Informed sources said Middle East affairs as well as disarmament would be discussed.

The lunch meeting today was the first contact Dulles had with the Russians since he arrived here Monday at President Eisenhower's direction to try to inject new life into the lagging disarmament negotiations.

Teamsters to Try to Organize Sears Workers; Contract with M-W

WASHINGTON —The giant Teamsters Union plans to try to organize workers in the nationwide Sears, Roebuck chain of stores.

The announcement that the drive is under consideration follows the signing of a Teamster contract with Sears' big mail-order rival—Montgomery Ward.

The one-year contract with Montgomery Ward, drawn up after 10 weeks of negotiation, provides for wage increases of 5 to 24 cents an hour for the workers.

Rioting Convicts End Revolt

DEER LODGE, Mont. —Rioting convicts who threatened to kill eight hostages if National Guardsmen stormed their cell block ended their revolt early today on assurance their grievances would get "fair consideration."

The 600 demonstrating prisoners, constituting the entire prison population, released all of their hostages and calmly returned to their cells.

Even as the riot stopped, about 200 crack Montana National Guardsmen with bayonets fixed to unloaded rifles and about 80 lawmen carrying pistols with live ammunition prepared to storm the captured prison.

The end of the nine-hour riot came at 12:01 a. m. m. s. t. when the angry inmates, calmed by the assurances of Atty. Gen. Forrest Anderson, agreed to halt the disturbance.

Ringleaders of the riot released the last five of eight guards they had held as hostages. The men were haggard from their ordeal but otherwise unharmed.

Prisoners at one point had warned over loudspeakers set up in windows of a captured cell-block that if the National Guard were sent in "We'll throw out bodies (of guards)."

Lady Stockholder Halts Speech by General MacArthur

NEW YORK —Gen. Douglas MacArthur, whose island-hopping advances could not be stopped by the Japanese forces in World War II, halted Tuesday in the face of a counter attack by a lady stockholder.

MacArthur, as chairman of the board of the Sperry Rand Corp., was bombarding "almost unlimited government" at a stockholders' meeting. He attacked the present federal tax structure as "even now probably adequate eventually to socialize the United States" when the counter-attack came.

As the general completed the Legislature a Place to Work Out Pressures: Jones

we know our government must have been good to have brought about the continued growth of this nation, Sen. Jones said.

He stated that the Illinois Legislature is the most outstanding and most active in the United States. It is a reflection of a strong state—a state that is the crossroads of the nation, the most active state and one with the most conflict of interest. The Illinois Legislature, he said, reflects quickest to the will of the people, it has more debate on more issues and it has more lobbying, which in itself, is a reflection of what the people of the state want, he said.

Note of Appreciation

The club voted its appreciation of Sen. Glen Jones, a member of the Harrisburg Kiwanis club, and voted one of the most outstanding legislators in the General Assembly, and in his freshman year he was voted the most outstanding freshman legislator.

President Richard Davenport announced there would be a meeting of the board of directors at 6 p. m. today at Schnierle's cafe. Members who have missed a meeting during the month may make up a meeting by attending the board meeting.

The Right Man

JERSEY CITY, N. J. —When outgoing Mayor Bernard J. Berry was asked who he felt could best carry on the policies of his administration, he answered: "Me."

"I love my country," she shouted. "I love to pay taxes. I've waited for an hour and 15 minutes to hear about Sperry Rand and dividends."

MacArthur finally calmed Mrs. Davis with the assurance that she and the other stockholders would all get a chance to air their views later.

Garden Calendar for August

Be sure to keep your spraying and dusting program until cold weather sets in. Spray about every 10 days with roses. Humid weather encourages black spot on roses, mildew on crape-myrtle and aphids everywhere. But don't feed your roses after the first week in August, as it will force new growth, which may be killed by an early freeze.

Peonies should be ordered now for September planting. Old peonies should not be divided unless absolutely necessary although if they do not bloom, try replanting as they may be too deep or are in the shade; peonies like plenty of sun. Do this the latter part of this month or early in September so they will become well established before a hard frost. Apply a trowelful of fertilizer (bone meal and wood ashes are best), around each plant and carefully work it into the soil, being careful not to go too deep, as peony roots are close to the surface.

Madonna-lily bulbs should be ordered promptly; they will soon be available and should be set out ahead of other bulbs. Plant only 2 or 3 inches deep. Old bulbs may be dug and divided.

Order daffodils at once, if you have not already done so, and if you have any that need dividing or resetting, it should be done at once, as the sooner daffodils are put out the better established they will become before winter. They should be set out earlier than some other bulbs, such as tulips.

Plant colchicums and fall crocuses. Use the fall crocuses in the rock garden if you wish but do not put the colchicums there, as the leaves, which come in the spring, are too large for such a location.

Continue to divide and plant iris, the sooner you get them set out now the better, but remember that Japanese iris dislike lime and they should be planted deeper than the bearded iris.

Oriental poppies may still be moved. Summer is the only time of the year in which they can be divided successfully.

The Virginia bluebell, Mertensia virginica, can be divided and moved at this season, as the roots are practically dormant.

Cuttings made from English ivy now will produce good house plants for winter.

To have forget-me-nots in bloom early next year, the seed should be sown this month. They make an attractive carpet planting for tulip beds and if the tulips were not lifted earlier in the season, the seed can be sown directly in the tulip bed.

At this time of the year frequently we have few rains and some shrubs especially will need watering. Watering should be done slowly and thoroughly to prevent soil washing and to insure soaking the earth to a depth of several inches.

As soon as the hollyhocks have finished blooming, cut them to the ground and burn all tops and leaves. Be sure to spray the young seedlings with a fungicide to keep them from becoming infected.

When gladiolus spikes are being cut for decorating the house, a reasonable amount of foliage should be left, otherwise the corms will not ripen properly. It is best to sever the stalk with a sharp knife, making a slanting cut.

Give perennial candytuft full sun. It does not like shade.

It is important to watch dwarf evergreens for small green worms which eat the foliage rapidly. A nicotine spray will kill the worms immediately, but must come in contact with them. Don't spray when the temperature is over 80 degrees. In hot weather early in the morning is the best time.

The chinch bug, a tiny dark insect with a light band around the middle, may be turning the lawn brown. Spray the infested areas with a nicotine solution made up at the rate of two teaspoons to a gallon of water, or better still, try the new insecticide chlordane, which seems to be the best chinch bug control yet discovered.

For red spider on evergreens, turn a full spray of water from a hose on the plants and wash off all the spiders; be sure to get to every part of the evergreens.

Euonymus vines and plants infested with scale seem to be covered with white dots. If not sprayed in time, the plants will die. Give the foliage and stems a strong application of Black Leaf 40.

To get the dried sprays of gypsophilla (Babies' breath) for the winter, cut them now when in full bloom. Either the single variety or Bristol Fairy may be used. Cut the sprays on a hot day and dry them in the shade. Store the thoroughly dried material in cartons lined with paper to keep it clean and dry. This also applies to straw flowers and the other everlasting, although they should be hung up, heads down, to dry.

Army Wants Flying Jeeps

WASHINGTON AP — The Army plans to spend $1,702,000 to learn how to make jeeps fly.

The service announced Monday it had placed contracts for design, construction and testing of "aerial jeeps."

The Army said it wants a vehicle that will hover or scoot through the air at 50 miles an hour with a 1,000 pound load of weapons or equipment.

It said if the aerial jeep works out, it may "eventually" go in for aerial trucks.

The contracts call for research vehicles using the "ducted propeller" means of locomotion. The ducted propeller looks like a fan in a wash tub and has been used on test vehicles to push them into the air.

Cardinals Call Up Replacement for Murry Dickson

By United Press
The St. Louis Cardinals today called up right-handed pitcher Billy Muffett from Houston of the Texas League to replace veteran Murry Dickson, who is on the disabled list.

The 25-year-old Muffett had a 14-6 record with Houston and was leading the league with 139 strikeouts in 188 innings.

Dickson was placed on the disabled list because of arm trouble. In another player move, the Cleveland Indians brought up outfielder Joe Caffie from Buffalo, where he was hitting .341.

To make room for him, the Indians announced they would assign catcher Dick Brown to the minors.

Milwaukee signed left-handed pitcher Paul Maloney, Tewksbury, Mass., and outfielder Larry Dean Click, Paris, Tex. Maloney was sent to Eau Claire of the Northern League while Click will be assigned later.

Eisenhower Joins In Praise For Donovan in Three-Hit, 7-1, Victory Over Senators

By United Press
President Eisenhower picked a fine night to watch a ball game and he wound up joining in the praise of the "hottest" pitcher in the majors at the moment—Dick Donovan of the Chicago White Sox.

The President, making his first mid-season appearance at a baseball game Tuesday night since last Aug. 31, commented appreciatively to aides on Donovan's brilliant three-hit pitching as the White Sox righthander beat the Senators, 7-1. Donovan, who didn't walk a batter in breezing to his 11th victory, has given up a total of eight hits in his last three games.

Not only did the President witness some fine pitching, but also some long ball clouting as Larry Doby and Minnie Minoso each walloped a pair of homers to keep the White Sox within three games of first place. Roy Sievers, who collected two of Washington's hits, also homered.

In other American League games, the Yankees helped Casey Stengel celebrate his birthday with a 10-4 victory over the Athletics; Boston blanked Detroit, 4-0, and Cleveland licked Baltimore, 6-0.

Braves Retain Lead

The Milwaukee Braves clung to their half game lead in the National League race with a 5-2 decision over the Pirates; the Cardinals topped the Giants, 7-3; Philadelphia defeated Cincinnati, 8-5, and the Cubs split a double-header with the Dodgers, Brooklyn winning the opener, 1-0, and Chicago the nightcap, 4-3.

The Braves scored their first three runs with the aid of two Pirates errors and a passed ball, and Lew Burdette then coasted to his ninth victory with a five-hitter. Burdette yielded a first inning homer to Gene Freese and Pittsburgh couldn't score again until the eighth. Johnny Logan drove in two of Milwaukee's runs.

Ron Northey Back

Pinch hitter Joe Cunningham smashed a grand-slam home run off Ruben Gomez in the ninth to snap a 3-3 tie and give the Cards a victory that kept them within a half game of Milwaukee. Larry Jackson registered his 12th victory after relieving Lindy McDaniel in the ninth when the Giants threatened.

Thirty-eight-year-old Ron Northey, back in a Phillies' uniform for the first time in 10 years, delivered a pinch two-run homer in the eighth inning off Hersh Freeman and that was the blow that beat Cincinnati. Home runs by Frank Robinson, Smokey Burgess and Don Hoak helped the Redlegs to a 5-3 lead but Stan Lopata led off the eighth with a homer. Rip Repulski singled and Northey did the rest. The Phils added two runs in the ninth to insure the victory for reliever Bob Miller.

The Dodgers won their opener from the Cubs when Carl Furillo's sacrifice fly scored Duke Snider with the only run of the game in the fourth inning. Sal Maglie was the winner with eighth-inning relief from Clem Labine. Loser Moe Drabowsky had 11 strikeouts. Bob Speake's eighth-inning homer proved the margin of victory for Chicago in the second game. Lee Walls also homered for the Cubs while Charley Neal connected for the Dodgers. Dave Hillman was credited with the victory but he needed help from Dick Drott and Don Elston.

Nashville Coal Company soon will commission the largest towboat ever to operate on inland waterways of the United States. This 177-foot-long, 5,400-horsepower towboat will handle easily 30,000-ton coal tows between West Kentucky coal fields and the lower Mississippi, en route to a Florida utility.

To Break Fight Game Wide Open

Moves by Patterson's Manager May Make Him Top Man in Boxing

NEW YORK 40—Manager Cus D'Amato's defiance of power and tradition in the fight game was attracting almost as much attention today as the first of his heavyweight champion, Floyd Patterson.

D'Amato is in the midst of four moves that may make him top man in the world of boxing. They are:

—Thursday he sends young Patterson back to camp at Greenwood Lake, N. Y., to sharpen for the first "open championship" in ring history — a defense of his world professional title against the world amateur champion, Pete Rademacher, at Seattle, Wash., Aug. 22.

—He and Patterson have waived the $175,000 guarantee for Monday night's knockout defense against Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson in order to make certain that the D'Amato - appointed promoter, Emil Lence, suffers no loss from the Polo Grounds' disappointing gate and stays in business.

Boycott Home TV

—He has withdrawn Patterson from home fight-television on any network until such time as one of the major TV corporations shall contract with an independent promoter, like Lence, for a weekly TV-fight series, in opposition to the International Boxing Club's TV-fight supremacy.

—Looking beyond the Rademacher fight, D'Amato is planning another Patterson defense under Lence promotion at New York in October or November, which he will try to force into Madison Square Garden or, otherwise, stage at the big Kingsbridge Army in the Bronx.

"I want to break the fight game wide open," said the stocky, gray-haired manager today. "I'll have no truck with monopolies or combines or cliques. I want to help independent promoters get back on their feet and make it possible for fighters, in all stages of development, to get what they're worth. And, luckily, I've got a world heavyweight champion who shares my ideals."

Floyd Loses $51,140

In waiving the $175,000 guarantee for last Monday's fight, D'Amato flabbergasted managers throughout fistiana. Patterson accepted 40 per cent of all net receipts and took a purse of $123,859—which was $51,140 less than the guarantee.

Meanwhile, Jackson, the badly battered challenger, remained abed at the Meadowbrook Hospital in suburban East Meadow, recovering from a kidney bruise that caused blood in his bladder-kidney tract.

Five specialists made a series of tests, including X-rays, and recommended he remain in the hospital several days for observation. Their thorough examinations disclosed no other serious injuries.

The Hurricane's mother, Georgia, and his sister took him to the hospital at 4:40 a. m. e. d. Tuesday about six hours after his 10th-round technical knockout by Patterson.

Downstate Fisherman's Guide

Report Good Catches in Area

By Pete Brown

(From reports by the Southern Illinois University Cooperative Fisheries Research Laboratory and the Illinois Department of Conservation.)

Fishermen still have their hands—and stringers—full at Pineknollyville City Lake, where the good run of crappie has gone into its third flourishing week. Averaging six to eight inches, the fish are hitting around the clock.

A five-pounder was the classiest bass captured during the week, and it was taken on a minnow. Artificial lures are not proving effective at the present. Bluegill fishing is improving and the best catches are coming from deep water, with worms.

Quite a number of bass have been pulled out of Horseshoe Lake during the week on both plugs and minnows.

The most productive activity at Horseshoe, however, has been recorded in the hole below the spillway. The water is receding, and hogging, snagging, gaffing and snatching has been pursued at a furious pace. Stranded in the pool following lake runoff are carp, drum, buffalo, channel cats, crappie—well, you name it. They're taking them (the rough ones, of course) by hand and hook. One of the popular devices is a large treble-hook on the end of a 20-pound cast casting line. A drum estimated at 15 pounds was one of the catches checked.

Crappie and bluegill remain the best bet at Little Grassy Lake. Jonathan Diesel, of Duplo, landed a five pound bass on an Injured Minnow, but largemouth business in general has not been up to par.

Channel cat, pound for pound, still represent the best catches at Lake Murphysboro, which is in topnotch fishing condition. H. Roberts, of Murphysboro, took home 10 weighing 82 pounds overall. Art Staudt, of Murphysboro, hooked a five pound, 14 ounce bass along with a three-pounder. E. Sangamo, St. Louis, landed a four pound bass. Bluegill fishing has been spotty.

R. Curry, Eldorado, and C. V. Dunn of Cobden, report the catch of a five pound bass at Harrisburg Lake, certainly a near record there. Many one-pounders are now being harvested on minnows and plugs. Crappie and bluegill angling is slow.

Crab Orchard Lake is clearing, although speedboats and cruisers with large motors tend to keep the water murky in many areas.

George and Earl Stanley set a pair of trotlines at the Du Quoin city reservoir and in nine days brought in 98 catfish. In addition to 87 bullheads they tallied four channel cats, two of them at 10 pounds, and five "blues."

Ora Metcalf, another Du Quoin fisherman, used the artificial red worm to hang a seven pound largemouth at a Truax-Truax Coal company pond near Elkhart.

XXXIII

They knelt upon the ground, Garde turned so that his body would shield the flashlight's beam from the street. Valley held the light low, with her raincoat spread to contain the circle of light within its tent. Rain fell in a dreary drip.

He drew the plastic sheath down and away from the leather bag. There was some lettering on the side of it, the gold-leaf somewhat tarnished and worn.

But the name could be read: T. S. LILLARD, M.D.

Inside, there were the usual things carried in such a medical kit. A row of small bottles, a few small boxes—four of these—some basic instruments—small forceps, a stethoscope, a pair of scissors, a probe, a small bundle of tongue blades, a piece of folded paper—and a small, blue-black gun.

Garde wiped his hands with his handkerchief and tucked the gun into his jacket pocket, taking from that same pocket a pair of clamp scissors.

Garde used the scissors, carefully, to draw out the piece of folded paper. There were two sheets—both about the same size. One proved to be a certified check for $5,000. The other was an unsigned note, an agreement to the effect that Ben Laurent would leave the town of Bayard, and its environs, within 36 hours.

"All obligations and relationships with the Lillard family paid in full."

Garde read this remarkable document aloud, awe rounding his voice. Valley stared at him; once she swayed a little, and his free hand went out to her. They knelt there on the ground for a time, their eyes piecing out the story of blackmail and a father's wish to protect his son. Valley's nerveless fingers let the flashlight drop to the ground. In the darkness, Garde reached for it.

"What," Valley whispered then, "are we going to—do?"

"I think," he said then to the girl who had watched his every move as one fascinated or hypnotized. "I'm sure we should take this directly to Kurt's attorney." His eyes questioned her for the name.

"Clement Peredoe," she told him.

"I know him." He was relieved that it should be that particular lawyer. His wife was one of Windsor's patients; the attorney still kept offices in St. Louis and was one of the more distinguished members of the Bayard community. "Peredoe will probably know best how to carry on from here."

Saturday morning was a warm one, with mist hanging over the river valley after last night's rain.

Valley had come out of their house and was waiting on the curb. Before Garde could get out, she had gone around and was into the seat. Garde indicated the plastic bag lying on the seat between them, and then they drove the rest of the way to Mr. Peredoe's home without talk.

Mr. Peredoe was a slender, pink-faced gentleman, and his air of watchful waiting and listening about matched Garde's.

But for all that, they got their story told, and within the hour the three were getting into the front seat of Garde's car.

They drove to the county seat and the office of the prosecuting attorney; after another hour, the group, now increased to four, went to the courthouse. They saw the judge in chambers, and a hearing was set for Monday.

Now the plan was for Valley to go to see Kurt—it was a drive of 60 miles. The judge had telephoned and had obtained permission for her to see him. Afterward she was to go to the old doctor and tell him, as gently as possible, what had been done.

Valley demurred somewhat at tying up Garde's car. "They'll rent me one at the garage—or I could go home with you and get Nan's."

"You're going to use mine," said Garde firmly. "And that's fair enough, too. I've been using Kurt's office all summer. Now he can get a little use out of something of mine..." He held out his keys and she took them, her eyes meeting his.

"Oh, Garde!" she cried, sudden excitement seizing her.

"Steady," he told her. "It's not over yet, you know."

"Oh, I know, but—" Her blue eyes widened and darkened. She turned back from the door and went up the short flight of stairs again; she met the prosecuting attorney and Mr. Peredoe in the hall. "Tell me," she cried earnestly, looking as young as Nan, and more experienced, "will you—will they—arrest Dr. Tom?"

"On Monday, Miss Stanfield, there will be a hearing on the case as a whole. If at this hearing this new evidence makes it appear that the old man acted in self-defense, there will probably be nothing."

"You're saying that I should leave it up to you legal minds?" The two attorneys smiled. "It might be better," said Mr. Peredoe.

Valley looked at them for another second or two, then she whirled toward Garde who waited at the head of the entry steps. "Garde," she said imperiously, "you must go to Nan at once and tell her about all this."

"We are going straight back to Bayard," Mr. Peredoe told her. The entire group had moved toward the wide door; a patrol car was waiting beyond Garde's in the street.

Garde put Valley into his car, the prosecuting attorney got in beside her; her eyes widened a little at this, and that gentleman nodded. "O.K.," she agreed, and drove away.

LITTLE LIZ

Nobody will ever win the battle of the sexes because there's too much fraternizing with the enemy.

Reorganized Drivers License Control System Saving to Illinois Taxpayers

SPRINGFIELD — Your new drivers license costs you more individually, but a reorganized drivers license control system here is expected to save Illinois taxpayers about $500,000 a year.

A boost in the drivers license fee from $1 to $3 became effective July 9, when it was signed into law. The higher fee will finance state aid to local driver training classes.

Apart from the driver training program, however, Secretary of State Charles F. Carpenter's automobile department is revamping the system with which it controls the some 4,500,000 drivers licenses issued in Illinois.

The principal change the motorist will see as a result of the new system is the form of his drivers license. New drivers licenses are being mailed out in post card form, with the license itself to be cut from the card.

The secretary's office has cautioned license applicants about the new form of the license. Some recipients haven't bothered to look at the card and have thrown it away without realizing it was their drivers license.

Stored on Magnetic Tape

Only a small part of the reorganization, which started back in June, has been complete. The job won't be finished for several years, one reason being that it takes three years for every driver in the state to have his license renewed under the staggered system now in effect.

Ultimately, when the revamped system is functioning as it is designed to, almost all the information necessary for drivers license files, as well as driver control files, will be stored on magnetic tape for use automatically by electronic data processing machines.

New IBM machines already are in use for various phases of the drivers license system, and when a driver applies for an original or a renewed drivers license the information from his application is fed into the machines with a punch card system.

William Colvin, chief of the auto license section, said the new system will permit more efficient processing of applications in less office space and with fewer personnel.

Once the reorganization is completed, he said, the savings should run about $500,000 a year. At the outset, however, costs may be higher because parts of the old system have to work with the new system as it is made effective.

Permanent Code Number

Average rental cost for the new machines already in operation, he said, runs about $12,000 a month. New machines are added as the system is expanded, and the rental stopped on unused machines.

Under the new system each license holder is automatically assigned a permanent code number by the processing machines based on the date of birth and the applicant's full name, C363-888-5333 for example.

Colvin said the new magnetic tape system for storing drivers license and control data was ordered about two years ago, shortly after it was developed. Delivery is expected next fall.

All the records required for 4,500,000 drivers, he said, will be stored on about 450 reels of tape. With the electronic data processing equipment it will be possible to locate the records of any one of them in a short time.

The driver control records, where reports of traffic violations and similar data for each driver is maintained, also will be included in the magnetic tape system.

"This is the first such installation in the country," Colvin said. "Already representatives of other states have been coming to Illinois to see how it's going to work."
